

MEADOW MOUNTAIN HOMES

Your Foundation for Mountain Living

We believe a home is more than a project. It is a reflection of you. It is where you watch the snow fall by the fire, gather for holiday meals, dream, recharge, and take in the beauty of mountain sunsets. Whatever defines your lifestyle, whether it is skiing, fishing, or simply relaxing, our homes are designed to meet you there.

OUR STORY

Meadow Mountain Homes began with a dream — one that took root on a dusty chicken bus in the Bolivian Andes. Newlyweds Ingrid and Sean McGinley had just sold everything and set off on a one-way journey through South America. As they traveled through villages, markets, and mountain passes, they began imagining the life they wanted to build back at home— one grounded in purpose, craftsmanship, and connection.

In 2006 they founded Meadow Mountain Homes to do just that and over the years, they've attracted a team of people who share their passion for building beautiful mountain homes and meaningful relationships.

Today, MMH is more than just Ingrid and Sean. We're a close-knit team all inspired by the mountain lifestyle. We live here, we raise our families here, and we understand what it means to create spaces that reflect the rugged beauty and quiet elegance of the Rockies. We bring the same values to every project: integrity, intention, and respect for both people and place.

Let's build something lasting, together.
